

Highly Absorbent, Skin Sensitive Paper Bedding - Made with Renewable Heat.

EnviroBed® uses recycled waste paper crumb dried with renewable heat sources, meaning our bedding is 100% sustainable.

The neutral pH of 7.4 ensures that it is gentle on skin, reducing the risk of teat skin irritation and damage which is commonly observed with strong alkaline bedding, such as lime-based products. Ensuring optimum skin condition helps to prevent pathogenic bacteria including E.coli, S. aureus and S. uberis from penetrating the skin barrier and entering the teat body where they can lead to infection.

Thanks to the high absorbency of EnviroBed®, and the lightweight, voluminous sawdust added to EnviroBed® Premium, you need much less bedding per cubicle, and it stays put on the beds, even in open breezy housing.

The neutral pH also means it can be incorporated into slurry storage and AD systems without disrupting the established beneficial microbiome.

What our customers say...

"We're using far less bedding these days because the EnviroBed® stays put on the rubber mats.

We have an open shed and we're in a windy spot. The sawdust and lime we used to use never stayed on the beds."

Marcus Hunt, Buckwell Lodge, Leicestershire

"We've used EnviroBed® from EnviroSystems for over 10 years now. It does a good job and keeps the heifers clean and dry."

John Torrance, Battles Hall, Romford (2020 NMR/RABDF Gold Cup winner)

"EnviroSystems are always on the ball and the bedding always comes when we need it. If there is ever a problem, it is sorted quickly, and it would only take one phone call - things are always chased up after and never left. This means I can rely on supply and there's one less thing to chase up on our farm - saving us time and energy!"

David Morgan at Gwerny Go in Powys
